Introduction

The papers collated in this edition of MJSS is a publication designed to expand the flow of ideas among social scientists, educators, and development scholars. Written by seasoned scholars, the papers were among the papers received by the International Scientific Committee of the International Conference on Environmental Studies and Research (ICESR2012); International Congress on Social and Cultural Studies (ICSCS2012) and International Congress on Business and Economic Research (ICBER2012) held in Nigeria.

This publication project is an initiative where ideas are as important as finance. Its goal is not only disseminating current knowledge about development but is also engaged in furthering this understanding. This work consequently contributes to the global debate on development management and capacity building as well as examining lessons of experiences for policy from an interdisciplinary perspective.

Jacinta A. Opara, PhD

Visiting Associate Professor, Universidad Azteca, Chalco-Mexico and President, African Association for Teaching and Learning